If the government shale lands in the wild west are worth, as "Raging Ralph" Kelley charged in his paid articles in the New York World, the sum of $40,000,000,000, here is a chance for the government and the World to make some real money. Let the government sell all of this shale land to the World for $30,000,000,000, pay off the national debt and distribute the other 14 billions among the unemployed. Then the World can make a clear profit of ten billions to use in its campaign to make the world safe for John Barleycorn. The fact that it would cost two or three times as much as the oil is worth to extract it from the shale ought not bother "big business men" like Mr. Kelley and the editors of the World.

What the American people need, says a writer in one of the current magazines, is the "naked truth," but the trouble is that what some writers call the naked truth is only an indecent exposure of their own minds.

We have to listen to the politicians six months telling what is going to happen at the election, and for six months afterward we have to listen to the alibis of at least half of them.

The editorial columns of some newspapers carry on about the billion dollar rise in the cost of living under the new tariff and the advertising columns of the same newspapers tell of the billion dollar drop in the cost of living.

The British secretary of foreign affairs who is surprised because the Soviet government has not carried out its promise to cease revolutionary propaganda in case of diplomatic recognition, is only equalled in surprise by those who discover that the moon isn't really made of green cheese.

President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin says that students of his institution have the same right to join the communists as the Presbyterians. But it is to be hoped that no student will try out the eminent educator's sincerity by organizing a society to overthrow the University of Wisconsin and its president by violence no matter what he calls the organization, however admissable it may be to join a "party" proposing that treatment for the government of the United States.

This is the time of the year when the school boys in the country are goin g nutting, and it is also the time of year when the politicians over the country are going nutty.

THE SPORT FORUM
By DICK LYNDEN

The same Stanford football coterie that so boorishly retreated in the recent Trojan outrage, fetched some old-fashioned drive into their elegant dance maneuvers last Saturday and rolled over the Washington Huskies 25-7 after a somewhat wavering start which enabled Mr. Phelan's gaudily decked pupils to nudge across a touchdown early in the opening stanza. Warner's boys gave a very respectable show in the first half, combining power with complex trickery, but thereafter the entertainment took on the aspect of something crude and boisterout, the Stanfordites seeming to derive a rather malicious pleasure from ripping asunder the golden jerseys of those bashful besiegers.

Whether or not this victory has any significance is a controversial and knotty point. Washington defeated California 13-0; U. S. C. slaughtered the Bears 74-0 in a game which had five minutes lopped off the final quarter, not to mention Jones' wholesale substitutions. Moreover, Oregon blasted the Huskies 7-0, and Oregon had considerable trouble beating U. C. L. A. by the same score.

No matter how the situation is surveyed, the result is not flattering to California. Figuring on a comparative-score basis, U. C. L. A. would be some 13 points stronger than Cal, and the Bruins have yet to be called a first division aggregation. Which would make those rabid fans, who hold "big game" ducats at five slugs per and more, begin to have bad dreams about hard, cold seats on a raw November day—and at five stones a throw . . . .

The two Trojan immortals, Duffield and Mohler, rambled and rollicked through a badly disjointed California line last Saturday until bunions and fatigue forbade, and retired amid thunderous applause after compiling a score which will be entered in the archives of coast football history as the greatest humiliation ever meted out to a major institution. Well, that should be a sort of rancorous satisfaction to Stanford supporters.

Those who are acclaiming the Trojan football company the majesty of the west, however, are too eagerly negligent of the defeat rendered them by the Washington State Cougars earlier in the season. The Cougars not only won but won decisively, which is not shown in the returns. W. S. C. pushed over the first touchdown, and save for the last period when the Trojans accomplished a score on a fast-tiring Cougar eleven, had the game well in hand at all times.

In less than 30 minutes, Knute Rockne's Notre Dame avalanche of speed and coordination, represented in the most perfectly functioning eleven men in the records of that school, swept with cold fury over a great Pennsylvania team last week-end to blast the Red and Blue 53-0 before Rockne removed them in favor of the second and third teams. WHY NOT SAVE AMERICA FIRST?

Virgil McDonald, economist of the McGraw-Hill publications, in a recent address at Old Point Comfort, Va., attacked certain powerful banking interests in the United States for their effort to enforce further deflation, in pursuance of their theory that the standard of living in the United States must come down. The idea that the economic level of the United States must be reduced to the world level has been in the minds of American international bankers from the time ,a dozen years ago, when they began their drive to force the United States into the League of Nations, which in its covenant declared in favor of such world-wide economic equalization at the sacrifice of American well-being. This doctrine was most recently declared by the governor of a federal reserve bank, at the bankers convention at Cleveland, when he said that the American standard of living is too high, and that efforts to keep it up by tariff laws and immigration restrictions must cease. This statement echoed sentiments expressed by Owen D. Young at Los Angeles some months ago when he insisted that we must either sink to the world's economic level or lift it to our level, and that such American walls of economic defense as the protective tariff must be razed.

Mr. McDonald predicted that following the election these apostles of permanent American deflation, or degradation, would attempt to enter upon a program of wage reductions. The three largest banks in the country, he said, were lined up with the deflation movement, while the federal reserve stood idly by, despite the fact that the success of the depression program would mean an unduly prolonged period of industrial stagnation. Banks throughout the country have during the past few months been under pressure to withhold loans and press debtors. As a result construction and expansion have been halted. The effect of this artificially continued period of depression and unemployment is popular unrest which may seriously affect the future of the country.

The depression existing in the United States today is clearly the result of the joint effort of international socialists and international capitalists. It will be recalled that in 1920-21, the federal reserve board, to meet a demand at that time for lower commodity costs which chiefly came from Europe, so quickly deflated agricultural credits that the ruinous effects of the violent blood-letting have continued to this day.

These American international bankers have loaned and invested some twenty-six billian dollars abroad, chiefly in Europe. They have used this money at large immediate profit, in an attempt to restore economic stability in nations where such stability is impossible, due to the the menace of socialism and bolshevism which threatens the safety of all European investment. Every government in Europe is either under a dictatorship or a socialist parliamentary control—of politicians, in other words, who openly declare their purpose to extirpate private ownership. The growth of this danger caused the investment of three billion dollars of European money in American industrial securities prior to July 1, 1929. The effort to drive this money home to stabilize European financial conditions began following a visit to thi scountry of the governor of the Bank of England, in January, 1929. From that time on, apparently, the federal reserve board co-operated with the forces engaged in an attempt to deflate the American securities market after having permitted its inflation chiefly by foreign or international investors. The dumping of foreign securities, and of securities owned by New York and allied financial institutions, accompanied by heavy short selling, began in midsummer of 1929, and reached its climax, doubtless much more severe than had been intended, in October, 1929, with a crash which demoralized American industry and started the existing depression. Every time the American securities market attempts to get up, these interests knock it down.

Another necessary means of protecting these foreign investments was the further opening of the American market to goods produced in the cheap labor markets of Europe, in which incidentally American industrial interests had established some two thousand plants. It was this item in the program of the international levelers, which caused the financing of the most tremendous propaganda campaign since the days of George Creel. Every proposal to hoist American tariff rates to the point promised in the platforms of both the political parties in 1928—that is to the point representing the difference in labor costs at home and abroad—was pounded. While broadcasting successfully the idea that the proposed new rates, only sixty per cent as high as the rates of the Payne-Aldrich law, were unprecedented and exorbitant, the international bankers and industrialists kept on the free list or on the low tariff list many commodities being imported in vast quantities to the displacement of American meployment. This effort was especially successful in the case of commodities produced by slave labor from stolen property in Russia, where a dozen of the biggest branches of American big business have been driving profitable deals—such as anthracite coal, lumber, pulp-wood, oil, manganese, etc. This intensive propaganda, made especially prominent in all the metropolitan newspapers and newspaper chains known to be mouthpieces of the Anglo-American-German banking bund, and pushed along by American dupes who did not know what it is all about, actually cinvinced millions of Americans that the way to end unemployment and depression, was to bring about more, and not less, displacement of American by foreign production, cheapened through cheaper labor costs.

These same international banking interests have been successful in involving the United States in the reparations situatio nto such an extent that this participation is now made the excuse for a demand for the suspension and ultimate cancellation of the debts of the allies to the American government, as a means of relieving Germany from her indemnity payments to the allied governments.

The part played by the international socialists, open and camouflaged, in this country in the program of international leveling has been that of a continuous demagogic assault on American production enterprise. Enemies of the American system of private ownership, apostles of the European idea of political ownership, they have been doing their best to wreck American industrailism by attacks upon it, by undermining confidence and creating that fear which kills consuming power, curtails production and creates unemployment.

How long are these international pawn-brokers and international radicals going to be allowed to continue to take Uncle Sam for a ride? How soon are we going to begin to regulate American finance, write American tariffs and determine American policies in the interests of American prosperity and security? How soon are we going to turn from the job of world-saving to that of saving the United States from the machinations of those whose hearts have followed their treasure to foreign lands, or who have imported their political conceptions from socialist, communist, dictator-ridden Europe, and wish to proletarianize our politics by proletarianizing our people?

It is easy for a well-fed banker to talk of lowering the standard of living for the great majority of the American people. Hardly the way to avoid a communistic uprising.

attend during the session.

In the absence of a speaker this week Joseph Bennett was drafted to give a talk on the armistice and peace. He made the point of "making peace" rather than "keeping peace," bringing out the community of labor standards, welfare promotion, education, brotherly-love and policy of state or government. Mr. Bennett always has an interesting angle or point of view that makes his talks enjoyable.

A. P. Wingard and daughter returned last week from a visit with relatives in Abilene, Kan.

HOWDY FOLKS — Here's a story they tell on San Jose. A man had a few too many drinks so after seeing reptiles and many peculiar types of animals he rented a room and started charging people 35 cents admission to see his museum. Many bought tickets but when they didn't see anything called for a cop. The cop came and was going to arrest the man when the man took him into a corner and gave him a drink. The story ends by the cop giving the man $500 for half interest in the show.

TWO THINGS ARE WRONG WITH THAT STORY, ACCORDING TO JILLPOKE JOE —ONE IS THAT THE MAN SHOULD HAVE HELD OUT FOR MORE MONEY AND THE OTHER IS THAT THERE IS NOT SUPPOSED TO BE ANY DRINKING IN SAN JOSE.

Surprise Shower for Walter Harriman and His Fiance, Miss Taggart

Forty life-long friends of Walter Harriman were bidden to the B. O. Curry home last Saturday evening to a shower in honor of he and his fiance, Miss Claire Taggart of San Jose.

A summer moon and the romantic, old fashioned top buggy, cut down for the occasion and its age camouflaged with pink and green crepe paper, flowers and wedding bells, stood in the lower hall. As the newly engaged couple entered the door they were greeted by a jolly original song, sung by the guests, which invited them to be seated in the buggy. A poem entitled "Their Romance As We See It," written by Robert Dodge, was then read to the amusement of all. A shower immediately came up, but the weather man up above knew his business, for the drops came down gently in their laps, the rain drops proving to be beautiful gifts for their home-to-be.

A buffet supper was served after the festivities.

The groom to be is a graduate of the Campbell high school and is well known in this community, having spent most of his life on Payne avenue. Recently he and his mother, Mrs. Hattie Harriman, moved to San Francisco where Walter has a responsible position with the Standard Oil company.

final score was 60-20, but well might have been written in three digits to nought for Penn had the first eleven played throughout. This team, said to be far better than a more famous one on which the "four horsemen" ran to unending glory, engages U. S. C. in Los Angeles Dec. 6.

That august body of Coast League baseball directors, who are as stubbornly divided in the selection of a president as if it really mattered, called a temporary halt to the wrangling and palavering endurance session which has continued unabated for several moons. It seems that four clubs are backing Harry Williams, the incumbent, to retain the job, while the other four will vote for anyone but Williams. Meanwhile, Mr. Williams remains in his present capacity until such time as a successor be chosen. It looks as though the position were his for life.

MAIL EARLY AND CAREFULLY, PLEA OF POST OFFICE

The post office department has issued Christmas mailing instructions which, if followed, will insure the early and safe delivery of your Christmas mail. The Press, at the request of Postmaster H. C. Smith, herewith reprints this information for your convenience.

Wrapping and Packing

All parcels must be securely wrapped or packed. Use strong paper and heavy twine.

Special Packing

Umbrellas, canes, golf sticks, should be reinforced their full length by strong strips of wood and tied or otherwise sufficiently wrapped to withstand transportation.

Hats: Pack in strong corrugated or fibre boxes. Ordinary pasteboard hatboxes must be crated. Ladies' hats and stiff hats easily damaged should be marked "fragile."

Shoes: Pack in strong boxes, preferably corrugated cardboard. Wrap with strong paper securely tied with heavy twine.

Cut flowers: Place in strong suitable boxes of wood, tin or heavy corrugated cardboard. Wrap with tissue to retain moisture.

Candies: Inclose in strong outside boxes or containers.

Drawings, paintings, unmounted maps, etc.: Pack or wrap in strong material to avoid damage. When not flat, roll around a wooden core and then wrap and tie carefully or place in strong pasteboard tube.

Sharp-pointed or sharp-edged instruments or tools must have points and edges fully guarded to prevent injury to clerks in hadling or dam age to other mail. Crate suitably or thoroughly wrap so that they cannot cut through the wrapping.

Fragile Objects

Articles easily broken or crushed must be crated or securely wrapped. Use liberal quantities of excelsior or like material in, around and between the articles and the outside container.

Glassware, fragile toys, crockery must be packed so as to prevent the escape of particles or pieces if broken in transit.

Cigars: Ordinary boxes of cigars wraped in paper only will not be accepted. Pack in a manner to prevent damage by shock or jar. Wrap in corrugated pasteboard or similar material.

All articles easily broken or damaged must be plainly marked "fragile."

Perishable Matter

Articles likely to spoil within the time reasonably required for transportation and delivery will not be accepted for mailing. Wrap or pack carefully, according to contents, and plainly mark all such parcels "perishable." Use special delivery stamps to expediate delivery.

JONES used to have frequent evening grouches. But not any more. Since Mrs. Jones put in the new Crane Automatic Water Heater, he takes a quick warm shower and settles into a chair, nerves soothed, muscles relaxed, at peace with the world. "I guess that was a pretty smart idea, after all, about that heater," he says.

For you as well as for the Joneses, a Crane Premier or Keystone Water Heater will give the maximum in hot water comfort, the minimum in attention or trouble. Let us show you.

There Is No Substitute For Savings In The Bank

A savings account in the American Trust Company is a fine form of investment.

It is always worth one hundred cents on the dollar.

It may be withdrawn when wanted at full face value.

It brings the joy of getting ahead and freedom from worry.

It gives courage to meet emergencies and the ability to take advantage of opportunities.

The interest it earns when compounded makes it grow rapidly.

If added to regularly it will bring financial independence.
